Waller leads Buccaneer dedication

By DAN BARBER

Gov. William Waller, speaking at dedication ceremonies Friday for Buccaneer State Park, told a chilled crowd of approximately 300 that the presence was evidence of the importance Hancock County people placed on the improvement of their community.

"I'm impressed that Perry Gibson (member of the state park commission and Bay St. Louis resident) has so many friends," the Governor said jokingly.

Despite the chilly temperatures for the park dedication, almost every politician from Hancock County could be found at the 2 p.m. program at the park as well as an impressive number of organized school groups, senior citizens, and the general public.

"The only time the temperature went up," Waller continued in a humorous vein, "was when all those politicians arrived and released all that hot air in the park."

The general good humor of the governor was reflected in all of the dignitaries present as they all took their turn to express the momentousness of the occasion.

Most gave Waller the overriding credit for the successful completion of the park which was created out of a 1972 act of the Mississippi Legislature approving $25 million for state park improvements. Included in that grant was $3 million for creation of a Gulf Coast park, the first built on the coast since the late 1930's.

Waller reminded the audience of that long state drought on parks Friday.

"This is the first state park to be opened on the Gulf Coast since the days of the CCC," Waller told the audience, "and undoubtedly the first park here in the South in the memory of a lot of you. It is a great honor to dedicate it."

"I hope," Waller added that you will invite Gov.-elect Cliff Finch and the Jackson legislators down here and tell them "we want $2 million more to improve on it."

This is a regional park, Waller continued, with visitors coming from Mobile, Jackson, New Orleans and all over.

"Make them want to stay here and visit friendly Waveland and Bay St. Louis," Waller challenged the audience.

Buccaneer encompasses 393 acres of pine and live oak woods nestled across the natural beach of the Mississippi Sound. The park, which is incorporated into the city limits of Waveland, lies two miles west of the main business district of the town. After delivering the dedication address for Buccaneer, Waller was surprised with a presentation from the people of the Republic of Honduras for

"Mississippi's splendid work in helping Honduras reconstruct after Hurricane Fifi." The award was given to Waller by Paul White, a member of the Governor's special emissary team sent to render aid to the Hondurans.

Other dignitaries present for the dedication were State Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Buck Ross, State Senator Martin Smith, Hancock County State Representative J.P. Compretta, chairman of the Mississippi Park Commission Larry Broadhead, and executive director of the park commission Dr. Jim W. Meredith.

Waller was introduced by Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin, Master of ceremonies for the occasion was Waveland attorney Lucien Gex Jr.

Bicentennial buffs brave weather to witness historic reenactment

By CAROLE LANGE

Freezing temperatures and a brisk wind failed to daunt the spirits of approximately 200 Bicentennial buffs who turned out Friday to witness a reenactment of the first raising of the U. S. flag on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The event, sponsored by the American Revolution Bicentennial Committee of Pass Christian commemorated, to the exact date and time, an event that occurred in 1811 when Dr. William Flood hoisted the flag at the "Pass of Christian" and claimed the territory for the United States of America.

According to a commission spokesman, Gov. William C.C. Claiborne, of the Territory of Orleans was instructed by President James Madison to annex the West Florida Territory along the Gulf of Mexico.

An expedition commanded by Dr. Flood set out from New Orleans Jan. 5 on the "Alligator" to accomplish the mission four days later.

At Friday's re-enactment, Dr. Flood (Benjamin Carrubba) arrived at the Pass Christian harbor on schedule with his companion priest (Bobby Hartson), pursued all the while by a garishly costumed band of pirates, the "Sons of Lafitte."

Following Dr. Flood's order that the flag be raised, to rounds of applause from the onlookers gathered in front of City Hall, four commissions were given to justices of the peace for "Biloxi and Pascagoula parishes." The recipients, descendants of those commissioned in 1811, included Sam Favre, Bay St. Louis; Jacque Ladner, Gulfport; George Farragut, Pascagoula; and Philip Saucier, Pass Christian.

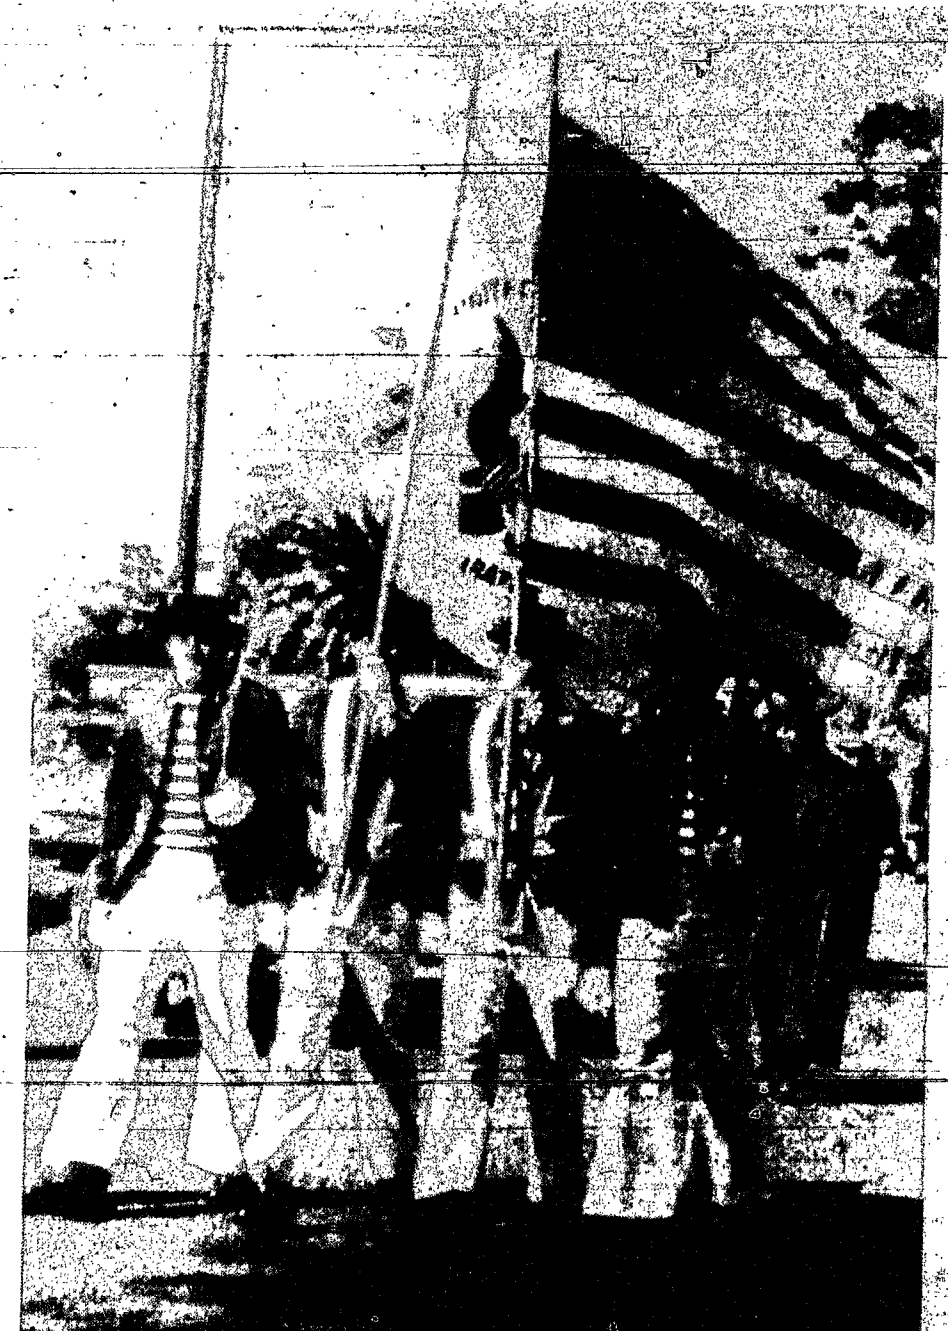

During remarks by guests speakers Louisiana Lt. Gov. James E. Fitzmorris and Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller, the town of Pass Christian and especially the Bicentennial Committee received much praise concerning the organization of the event.

Gov. Waller termed the occasion "the most unique Bicentennial ceremony" he's seen and told the crowd they could "see the past of their city in its glory and mirror its future by their current way of life."

Following re-enactment ceremonies, a tour of selected homes and places of interest was conducted. Stops on the tour included Ballymore, home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klump; Trinity Episcopal Church; the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Frierson; and the Pass Christian Public Library.

Special guests at the ceremonies and preceding luncheon were Omer Claiborne, direct descendant of Gov. Claiborne and William Reeves, director, New Orleans American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

Judge Grant presides

By DAN BARBER

The state of Mississippi will reopen its murder case against Jimmy Ray Fine Monday when the January term of Hancock County Circuit Court convenes under Judge Leslie B. Grant.

An earlier attempt by the state to get a murder conviction against Fine, accused of the shooting death of his wife Sharon Dec. 14, 1974, ended in a mistrial Dec. 24 after Fine was placed under a physician's care for dehydration. The trial was in its second day when presiding Judge Ruble Griffin abruptly ended the proceedings before Fine was called to the stand by defense attorney

Boyce Holleman of Gulfport.

Fine allegedly shot his wife at their home on Rue de la Salle after a family argument.

During the opening day of the trial, Hancock County District Attorney Albert Necaise presented nine witnesses including three of Fine's children, before the State rested its case. The mistrial occurred on the day Holleman was to present the defendant's case.

Also on the January criminal docket is the continuation of charges against Sharel and Donald Jenkins, accused of the burglary of a dwelling in two in-dietments. The accused are represented by attorney Cornelius Ladner.

The criminal calendar also includes several cases against drug offenders, some of which date back to 1974. It is not yet known how many of these old cases will be cleared from the docket this term.

On the civil docket, the court is scheduled to hear a suit brought by Mrs. Edith F. Rada against the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Company claiming $1,000 in policy benefits resulting from the death of her husband James J. Rada Jr.

The plaintiff in the civil suit, Mrs. Rada, was earlier a defendant in a criminal suit brought by the state for the murder of her husband July 23, 1974, but was acquitted by a jury of the murder charge.

The suit by Mrs. Rada seeks the $1,000 as the result of a double indemnity rider on a policy held by her husband.

In another civil suit, the city of Waveland is a defendant along with Howard L. Byrd Construction, Wilcon, Inc., Ray Gray Construction, and the Travelers Insurance Company in a suit brought by Protection Service, Inc. of Harrisburg, Pa. for $10,182 claimed owing it for building materials and construction work upon the sewage system of the city of Waveland. Waveland is represented by city attorney Lucien Gex Jr. in the suit.

Two suits naming defunct Jackson Landing Shipyard are scheduled to be heard. The suits were brought by the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. for $2,047.76 and by Ocean Oil International Engineering Corporation for $5,748.

The replevin suit by Merchants seeks to recover possession of a 1974 Chevrolet pickup truck following default of loan payments while Ocean

Oil claims it is due compensation from Jackson Landing for architectural design on barges and other vessels.

Jackson Landing earlier filed bankruptcy proceedings in Federal Bankruptcy Court.

And finally, the city of Bay St. Louis has been named in another suit which asks that the court overturn three city orders forcing the Bay Auto Glass business to cease operation because of reputed zoning ordinance violations. Louis F. Jacquillard, Jr. and his wife, owners of the business located at the home at 521 Citizen Street, are plaintiffs in the suit.

AMERICA'S HERITAGE

America's Presidents Gain Recognition

The presidents of America—and not just the Presidents of the United States—are getting increased recognition. One such president is Elias Boudinot, a founder and first president of the United Presbyterian Foundation.

Elias Boudinot was one of this country's great founding fathers. In 1782, Mr. Boudinot was elected president of the Continental Congress and signed the Treaty of Peace with England following the Revolutionary War. He served in Congress from 1789 to 1795 and later was Director of the Mint. A philanthropist, he was a founder of the American Bible Society and served as its first president.

Like many prominent statesmen of the 18th century, Boudinot was a lawyer. But his long career of public service began with the threat of war with England. An ardent patriot, he helped form the First Continental Congress. In 1775 he secretly rounded up desperately needed gunpowder for General Washington. Later at Washington's request he became Commissioner for Prisoners of War and risked nearly $40,000 of his own cash and credit to help feed and clothe American prisoners in British hands.

Boudinot also contributed something that is still helping people today. When his will was probated after his death in 1821, it was discovered that he had left $15,000 to support Presbyterian causes. He knew that money invested over a period of time would earn much more than the original amount. So today, under the guardianship of the United Presbyterian Foundation, the enlarged gift continues to provide income for the distribution of books to churches and ministers in need.

OUR

The first flag of the colonies to have any resemblance to the present Stars and Stripes was the Grand Union flag, sometimes referred to as the "Congress Colors." It consisted of thirteen stripes, alternately red and white, representing the thirteen colonies, with a blue field in the upper left hand corner bearing the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew, signifying union with the mother country, according to the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve. This banner was first flown by the ships of the Colonial Fleet in the Delaware River in December, 1775. The Grand Union flag was carried by Marines and American Bluejackets comprising an expeditionary force in the West Indies during 1776.

Coastal zone boundaries topic for public meetings

Proposed boundaries for the Coastal Zone Management (CZM) Plan will be the main topic for a series of public meetings scheduled to begin along the Coast in late January.

The Mississippi Marine Resources Council will hold the meetings in Gulfport, Biloxi, Bay St. Louis, Pascagoula and Picayune through February to familiarize the public with plans for the CZM program development and to seek comments and suggestions regarding several alternative boundary proposals.

Executive Director J.E. Thomas said the coastal zone will extend south to the limit of Mississippi waters, east to the Alabama line and west to the Louisiana line.

The inland or north boundary, however, must include all areas of which the uses "will have a direct and significant impact upon the coastal waters," Thomas said.

The actual boundaries can include natural lines such as drainage basins, man-made lines such as highways, or political boundaries such as county lines.

The public meetings, which will be open to all interested individuals and groups, will feature a presentation of four possible boundary proposals with maps to illustrate their locations. Final decision on the boundary is scheduled for later this year.

The Council's schedule calls for a preliminary CZM Plan to be completed in late summer and for formal public hearings on the plan to be held in early autumn.

The first public meeting on the boundary proposals is scheduled for Jan. 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the Gulfport West Side Community Center.

The other meetings, which will be similar, will be held in Biloxi on Feb. 5 in the Biloxi Community Center on East Howard Avenue; Bay St. Louis on Feb. 10 in the Hancock County Courthouse, Chancery Courtroom; Pascagoula on Feb. 19 in the Jackson County Courthouse, Chancery Courtroom; and in Picayune on Feb. 24 in the third floor courtroom at City Hall. All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Consumer's Notebook

With Patricia Couch

Every year about 100,000 people, most of them children between the ages of five and 10, receive hospital emergency room treatment for injuries associated with public and backyard playground equipment.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is presently considering standards that will reduce the number and severity of accidents, but it will be some time before regulations can be issued. What can you do in the meantime to protect your playful offspring?

If you are shopping for playground equipment, be sure simple, detailed assembly instructions are included with the merchandise. Do not buy playground equipment with open-ended or S-shaped hooks, moving parts that can pinch small fingers, sharp edges or rough surfaces. Swings with light weight seats are preferable to hard, heavy seats.

It is best to set swing set legs in concrete in the ground. If you use the anchoring devices that usually come with the equipment, all pegs should be well below ground level with no slack in the chain or cable.

Check twice a month to be sure all nuts, bolts and clamps are tight and replace nuts and bolts that become rusted. All rusted areas on the metal tubing should be sanded and painted when necessary.

Most important of all, teach your children to use safe play habits around all playground equipment. Rough play, shoving and pushing has caused many accidents. Teach youngsters to sit in the center of a swing, not off to the side. Tell them not to twist the swing chains, swing empty seats or walk in front of their swinging playmates.

BAY-WAVELAND GARDEN

The Jan. 8 meeting of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club was held at 2 p.m. at the Garden Center on Leonhard Avenue, with Mrs. Lelyn Nybo, president, presiding.

Mississippi Arbor Day - "Liberty Tree Planting Day" - will be observed Feb. 13. Mrs. Dan Russell, civic development chairman, announced tentative plans for the observance of Arbor Day. The bicentennial planting of magnolias, which was initiated last year, will be continued as part of the Arbor Day observance. Mrs. Russell stated that additional plans will be announced later.

The Arbor Day ceremony will be held at the Waveland Hospitality Center. All residents are encouraged to participate in the observance of Arbor Day, especially in this bicentennial year, by planting a "Liberty Tree." Although the original "Liberty Tree" was an elm tree, any native tree would be suitable.

Terry Wilbourn, area horticulturist, gave a demonstration on the art of Bonsai, one of the oldest forms of horticulture.

Mrs. Lelyn Nybo announced that the Coast Council meeting will be held Feb. 6 at 1:30 p.m. at the Women's Club in Pascagoula.

The garden center was decorated in a bicentennial theme in honor of the first meeting of the 1976 bicentennial year. Hostesses for the meeting were John H. Cook, chairman, Mrs. Earl Ramond, Mrs. William Hilliker, Mrs. Ray Sudduth, Mrs. Harold Hicks, Mrs. Dan Russell, Mrs. Edward Thomson, Mrs. Felix Seeger, Mrs. Thomas Whittington, and Mrs. Numa Snider.

Federal guidelines challenge throwaway ethic

By the Staff of the Environmental Protection Agency

In the first major step toward a nationwide program of returnable beverage containers, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency today announced guidelines for the use of returnable beverage containers.

The guidelines will require a refundable five-cent deposit on all carbonated beverages, beer and other non-alcoholic beverages, to encourage their use.

The EPA's proposed guidelines, which are being developed by the agency's Office of Research and Development, are part of a broader effort to reduce solid waste.

The guidelines are part of a broader effort to reduce solid waste. The guidelines are part of a broader effort to reduce solid waste. The guidelines are part of a broader effort to reduce solid waste.

In 1974, 50 billion beverage containers were produced in the United States. Of these, only about 2 percent were returned for recycling.

EPA estimates that the guidelines are expected to reduce the amount of solid waste generated by the beverage industry by 10 percent.

Federal facilities now account for only about two to four percent of the beverage container wastes generated nationally. But the political battle that has accompanied the development of the guidelines indicates that they are expected to have far greater significance than the numbers suggest.

EPA's proposal of the guidelines came in response to a 1974 suit brought against it by the National Resources Defense Council, Environmental Action, and the Sierra Club. They have maintained that the Environmental Protection Agency is required to issue such guidelines as part of its responsibility under the 1970 Resource Recovery Act to issue guidelines for "solid waste recovery, collection, separation, and disposal systems."

Throughout the "returnable" controversy, environmentalists have supported a nationwide return to the returnable — a national way of life less than 20 years ago — as an important approach to resource conservation.

Returnables: a way of life less than 20 years ago.

management and "lay the essential philosophical groundwork for all subsequent federal efforts to regulate and improve solid waste management."

Opponents of the mandatory deposit such as the National Brewers Association, the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, and the Glass Bottle Blowers Association have argued that the switch back to returnable containers would have serious effects on employment and the economy.

Individuals interested in making known their views about EPA's "Solid Waste Management Guidelines for Beverage Containers" should write no later than January 12 to Sheldon Meyers, Deputy Assistant Administrator for Solid Waste Management Programs, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Washington, D.C. 20460. Letters should be sent in triplicate.

SOME THOUGHTS ABOUT 1976

Every new day should be received as a gift from God. But you would probably be surprised to discover how many people believe that they have 365 days coming to them automatically in 1976. It would be wise to consider that God has not promised any of us tomorrow. If you are reading this on Sunday, Jan. 11, you will want to remember that 10 days are history and 354 days are future and have not been guaranteed to anyone. A simple calculation shows that only one day of 1976 remains for any person, TODAY.

One of the best resolutions any of us could make for the new year would be to spend more time with our families. Most of us overlook the fact that the very best investment we can make in our children or our parents is the investment of our time. Nothing can replace the times of sharing and being together as a family. We wouldn't take anything for the unforgettable memories we have of some priceless moments and events which we shared with our family. Then why don't we try to provide some memorable experiences such as that for our children? The pitiful fact is that most of us are too wrapped up in things which are not nearly as important as our wives, sons, and daughters—at least that's what we tell people! Our actions, however, speak for themselves. The problem is to make our actions consistent with what we say. Its really quite a challenge. I'm working on it! I hope you will.

OLG begins carnival

HILL-SEUZENEAU TEAM

A fish fry at the Our Lady of the Gulf cafeteria, Friday, Jan. 16, will kick off the schedule of events for the Hill-Seuzeneau team of the OLG Carnival Association. The fish fry will be held from 5-8 p.m. with all meals priced at $1.50 per plate. Carry-out service will be available. An oyster bar and beverages will also be available. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the Hill-Seuzeneau team or by calling 467-3072. Tickets may also be purchased at the door. Other events planned by the team in the weeks prior to the Carnival Ball include: a Red Beans and Rice Dinner and Dessert Bar, Jan. 21; a children's skating party, Jan. 24; a dinner dance, Jan. 24; a crawfish dinner, Feb. 1; and a fried chicken dinner, Feb. 15. The public is invited to all these functions.

Activities for the Elliott-Kingston team will begin Jan. 14 with a spaghetti supper at OLG from 5-8 p.m. and a candy sale at the school.

Dixie National Livestock Show salutes Bicentennial

The 1976 Dixie National Livestock Show, which will be held Feb. 5-22 at the Mississippi State Fairgrounds Coliseum Complex, will have a Bicentennial flavor.

Through its various events, the 11th annual Dixie National plans a special birthday salute to America.

The 1976 Dixie National will surpass the shows of recent years according to its sponsor, the Mississippi State Fair Commission.

Members of the commission include: Jim Buck Ross, chairman, H.H. Annison, W.K. Everett, Tom Riddell, Jr., J.W. Lewis, George Harris, Robert Stockett, Thomas Kelly and W.M. Bost.

"Visitors to the Dixie National can expect top quality in every area," said Jim Buck Ross, Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce.

"The Mississippi State Fair Commission is again happy to sponsor the Dixie National and we anticipate the best show ever," he added.

In 11 years, the Dixie National has grown from a representation of 11 states to over 45 states and Canada and from $80,000 in premiums to over $110,000.

"I don't think anyone could wish for anything more. The Dixie National is the second largest livestock show in the country. That's not a bad achievement in 11 years," said H.H. Annison, executive director of the show.

Since its beginning, the Dixie National has steadily

invited

Local civic organizations, youth groups, riding clubs, antique automobile clubs and municipalities are invited to participate in the 11th annual Dixie National Bicentennial Rodeo Parade scheduled Feb. 14 in Jackson, according to Parade Committee Chairman Harold Murphy.

Sponsored by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, the downtown parade will begin at 10 a.m. with an alternate time of 2 p.m. in case of rain. The parade will coincide with the Dixie National Rodeo featuring Tommy Steiner's World Championship Rodeo Cowboys, which opens Friday, Feb. 13, in the Mississippi Coliseum.

While numerous riding clubs, junior high, high school, and college bands, horse and livestock breed association queens, 4-H and FFA Clubs, and organizational and civic sponsored floats have already been registered for the parade, Murphy's committee is urging participation from more local and out of town units.

From a reviewing stand on Capitol Street, each unit will be judged, with trophies to be awarded to the best performing band in each category - junior high, high school, and college - best mounted group for 4-H and FFA, best mounted independent group, most authentic costume and most unique float. Local television stations will be on hand to film the parade for delayed broadcasts and national news representatives will be present to cover the Bicentennial Event.

It should be noted by all parade participants with horses that no horses may be unloaded or permitted on the fairgrounds during the Dixie National Livestock Show without a certificate from a veterinarian stating that their horse has had a Coggins test. Arrangements have been made for horses to be unloaded and trucks and trailers parked on Amite Street west of Gallatin Street for those not having such certification.

Entry forms and complete information concerning the Dixie National Rodeo Parade are available from the Dixie National Rodeo Parade, Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, P.O. Box 1809, Jackson, Mississippi 39206.

increased its facilities to keep up with the growth.

Newest facilities include a pen bull barn and additional parking.

The Tommy Steiner, RCA World Championship rodeo will again be a top attraction at this year's Dixie National.

The rodeo begins Feb. 13 and continues through Feb. 19 in the Coliseum. Highlighting the rodeo will be entertainment by Lynn Anderson, one of the country's top singers.

Rodeo tickets can be ordered through the mail by sending check or money order plus 25 cents for postage and handling to: Dixie National rodeo tickets, P.O. Box 892, Jackson, Mississippi, 39205. Prices are $3, $4, and $5.

Major livestock events are the Polled Hereford Show, Hereford Show, Dixie Devon

Show, and Sale, Four Star Angus Show, Charolais Show, Brahman, Santa Gertrudis and Shorthorn Shows, Dixie National Barrow Show and Sale, the Mississippi 4-H and FFA Junior Round-Up, sale of champions and Pen Bull Show.

Other main attractions will be the Dixie National Quarter Horse Show, NCHA Open Cutting, Mississippi Apaloosa Show and the Dixie National Paint Horse Show. Admission to the livestock shows, cattle sales and exhibits is free.

Correction

The arrest of three persons as 314 Uman Ave., reported in Thursday's edition of the Echo, did not take place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Nelson who list their address Apartment C, complex and the Nelson residence have the same address, and the arrest occurred in the complex.

Eric Moser, and Diane Hollis, both Bay High seniors, study college name boards prepared by school for display during Sixth Annual College Night on Wednesday.

Bay High College Night to have 22 schools of higher learning

Twenty-two colleges and universities will be represented at the Bay Senior High School's sixth annual college night, scheduled for 7 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 14.

Under the sponsorship of the Guidance Department, Gibson L. Carter, counselor, the event is open to juniors and seniors from all area high schools, including Hancock North Central, Our Lady's Academy, St. Stanislaus College, Pass Christian High School, and Coast Episcopal High School.

Educational institutions extending representation to the event include, Alcorn State University, Belhaven College, Delta State University, Dillard University, Jackson State University, Louisiana State University, Loyola University, Millsaps College, Mississippi College, Mississippi Valley State University, Mississippi

University for Women, Pearl River Junior College, Spring Hill College, Tougaloo College, Tulane University, University of Mississippi, University of New Orleans, University of South Alabama, University of Southern Mississippi, William Carey College, and Xavier University.

Further information concerning the event may be obtained from Carter by calling 467-9237.

Free police service

Operation Identification protects valuable items

With the increasing number of thefts in the city, especially of small items like CB radios and car tape players, the Bay St. Louis police department urges citizens to use Operation Identification, a free service designed to help protect valuable possessions.

According to Police Chief Billy Carbonette, citizens will be allowed to use the department's electric engraver to mark their valuable items, including televisions, stereos, and tape players.

As has been the case for several weeks, thefts topped the number of complaints handled by the police department for the period Jan. 1-9.

Bobby Durbin, 1001 Spanish Acres Dr., reported that four wheel covers were stolen from his 1974 Ford automobile the night of Jan. 2.

On the night of Jan. 4, Ms. Jeannie Krankey, 322 St. John St., reported the theft of an old chair from her yard and Mrs. Ray McIntyre, 101 Sycamore, said a CB radio was stolen from her automobile the night of Jan. 3.

Police are still investigating the burglary of Ms. Tina Stockstill's residence, 202 Dunbar Ave. Investigating officer Frank Hess said the home was entered through a kitchen window with the burglar taking a 19 inch television set and a stereo tape player valued at $150.

In a Jan. 5 theft, police arrested a 16-year-old youth for stealing two pairs of pants from Dollar General Store and added an additional charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

In two unrelated cases of vandalism, Jan. 4, Gene Mitchell reported that black paint was sprayed on the windshield of his truck and the windshield then broken while the vehicle was parked at 500 Hancock St.

Police are also investigating damage done to a vacant house at the intersection of Bay Oaks Dr. and South Beach Rd. where someone shot several windows out of the house with a pellet rifle.

Chief Carbonette pointed out that the above incident was reported by a citizen and urges all citizens to use the police department's Crime Stop, a telephone number used specifically to report crimes in progress or suspicious incidents to the police. He said callers are not required to give their names. The number is 467-3446.

Metric educators

to conduct workshop

BILOXI, — Featuring the most prominent metric panelists and instructors in the nation, the Third International Conference on Metric Education will be held Feb. 27-28 at the Sheraton-Biloxi Motor Inn, announced Gene Tinnon, director of conferences and workshops at the University of Southern Mississippi.

In addition to the mini-courses to be held about teaching the modernized metric system (SI) in elementary schools, secondary schools and colleges and universities, approximately 20 company representatives will describe their products in other sessions and papers will be given by leaders in the metric fields.

Fees are $55 for full conference (includes banquet) or $25 for one day (no banquet). Speakers and panelists will include Louis F. Sokol, president of the Metric Association; Dr. Floyd Davis, project manager of the Metric Education Program of the U.S. Office of Education which has been allotted more than $2 million for metric education programs; and Jeffrey V. Odum, chief of the Information Office of the National Bureau of Standards.

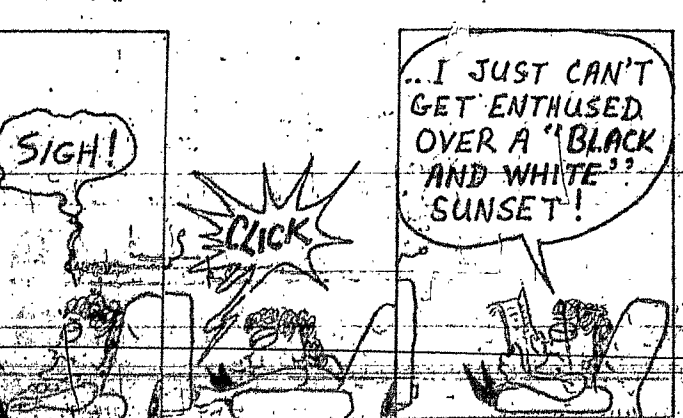

Others are Dr. John M. Flowers, nationally recognized metric specialist in the Science Education Department at USM; Buddy Calhoun, mathematics coordinator for the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television; Mrs. Irene Holland of Lambertson Public Schools; and Dr. Charles Eicher, associate professor of education at the University of South Dakota.

Registration will be at 8 a.m., Friday, Feb. 27, at the Sheraton-Biloxi second floor mezzanine, but participants are urged to submit early registrations, since a crowd of about 500 from several nations is expected to attend.

For additional information and to register early, contact Gene Tinnon, University of Southern Mississippi, Southern Station Box 56, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39401.

The cairn terrier got its name because it was skillful at digging out foxes in their lairs among the Scottish cairns, which were heaps of stones used as memorials or landmarks.

Conservation group acquires Midwest sanctuary for threatened bald eagle

As a part of its Bicentennial Eagle project the National Wildlife Federation has acquired a 150-acre refuge for the threatened American bald eagle in the Upper Midwest.

The refuge, to be known as the Ferry Bluff Eagle Sanctuary, is located in a heavily wooded area along the Wisconsin River near Sauk City, Wisconsin. It is a roosting site for bald eagles now concentrating along the Mississippi River Valley flyway, the winter fishing ground for about a third of all the bald eagles remaining in the "lower 48" states.

Purchase of the land, sheltered by a bluff that was once the site of a ferry boat landing, was announced by Walter L. Mims, president of NWF, the nation's largest conservation organization. The acquisition was made possible, Mims said, by a $47,000 donation from Anheuser-Busch, Inc., of St. Louis, Missouri.

The new sanctuary will be managed on a contract basis by a mid-western affiliate of the NWF, the Eagle Valley Environmentalists (EVE). EVE, with a membership concentrated in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota, already operates the No. 1 eagle roosting site in Wisconsin, a 1,400-acre tract known as the Eagle Valley Nature Preserve along the Mississippi River near Cassville, about 120 miles from the new sanctuary.

Management of the two sites, at Eagle Valley and Ferry Bluff, will give the five-year-old non-profit EVE organization "an important role in the struggle to save the eagle from extinction in the Upper Midwest," Mims observed in assigning operation of the NWF refuge to EVE.

"We are dealing in relatively small numbers, perhaps fewer than a hundred eagles now," Mims continued, "but they are precious numbers and up to now they have been ever-dwindling numbers. By providing good, safe habitat, which is the key to their survival, we hope that EVE can encourage increasing numbers of eagles to roost and even nest at Ferry Bluff."

August A. Busch III, president and executive officer of Anheuser-Busch, said his company donated the money for the land "not just as a gift to the National Wildlife Federation, but to all the people of America, on our Bicentennial, as a 200th birthday present."

"The eagle, which is our company's symbol as well as the national symbol, represents a lot of qualities, such as courage, strength, and beauty, that we want to preserve," Busch added. "We want the eagle, and those qualities, to be around 100 years from now for our Tercentennial Year."

Terrence N. Ingram, of Apple River, Illinois, president of EVE, noted that the Ferry Bluff Eagle Sanctuary's 150 acres are shielded from public intrusion by a 34-acre "buffer zone" along the river recently acquired by the Nature Conservancy and by another 20 acres just north of that already controlled by EVE. As many as 80 eagles, including migrants, have occupied the site at one time.

Altogether, the 204 acres, with their tall trees, and a "bowl" or hollow at the rear of Ferry Bluff, provide an "ideal roost" for about 30 eagles from December to March each year, Ingram said. While roosting at the site the eagles alternately soar overhead and dive for fish in nearby streams from dawn to dusk each day.

Day-to-day management of the sanctuary, including the enforcement of strict rules against human encroachment, will be assigned by EVE to its Ferry Bluff Committee, headed by Pat Peckham, of Prairie du Sac, Wisconsin, vice-president of EVE and editor of the weekly Sauk-Prairie Star.

The search for eagle land inevitably led Ray Nesbit, of Sacramento, California, head of the NWF Land Heritage Program, to the upper Mississippi River Valley, where last February the annual Midwinter Eagle Count recorded 1,131 bald eagles between Minnesota and Tennessee. Elton Fawks, of East Moline, Illinois, a National Wildlife Federation consultant who conducts the count each year, said the 1975 survey indicated that eagles were moving into the Mississippi Valley from other parts of the country.

Nesbit acquired the land in consultation with, among others, EVE's President Ingram, who each year runs a "Bald Eagle Days" conference in Wisconsin for eagle experts from throughout the country. Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation, will be the principal speaker at this year's conference, in Madison, Wisconsin, on Jan. 31. At that meeting Ingram is expected to announce that the new refuge will be open, on a limited basis, to qualified eagle researchers.

Compagno's cousin Nick said he had been sleeping in the front bedroom of the three bedroom house when he was awakened "by a loud crackling noise and the smell of smoke."

According to Compagno, "I jumped out of bed and the whole back of the house was nothing but smoke, tons of it. I knew I couldn't get out that way so I pushed my hand through the window in the front door and jumped out."

"I didn't even put my pants on," he said. "I just jumped out in my drawers."

Compagno was taken by Mobile Medic to Hancock General Hospital where he was treated for first degree burns on his right leg and minor cuts. Captain Ronnie Ferrell of the Waveland Fire Department said the department was notified of the fire by a neighbor, Gerald Price, at approximately 11:20 p.m.

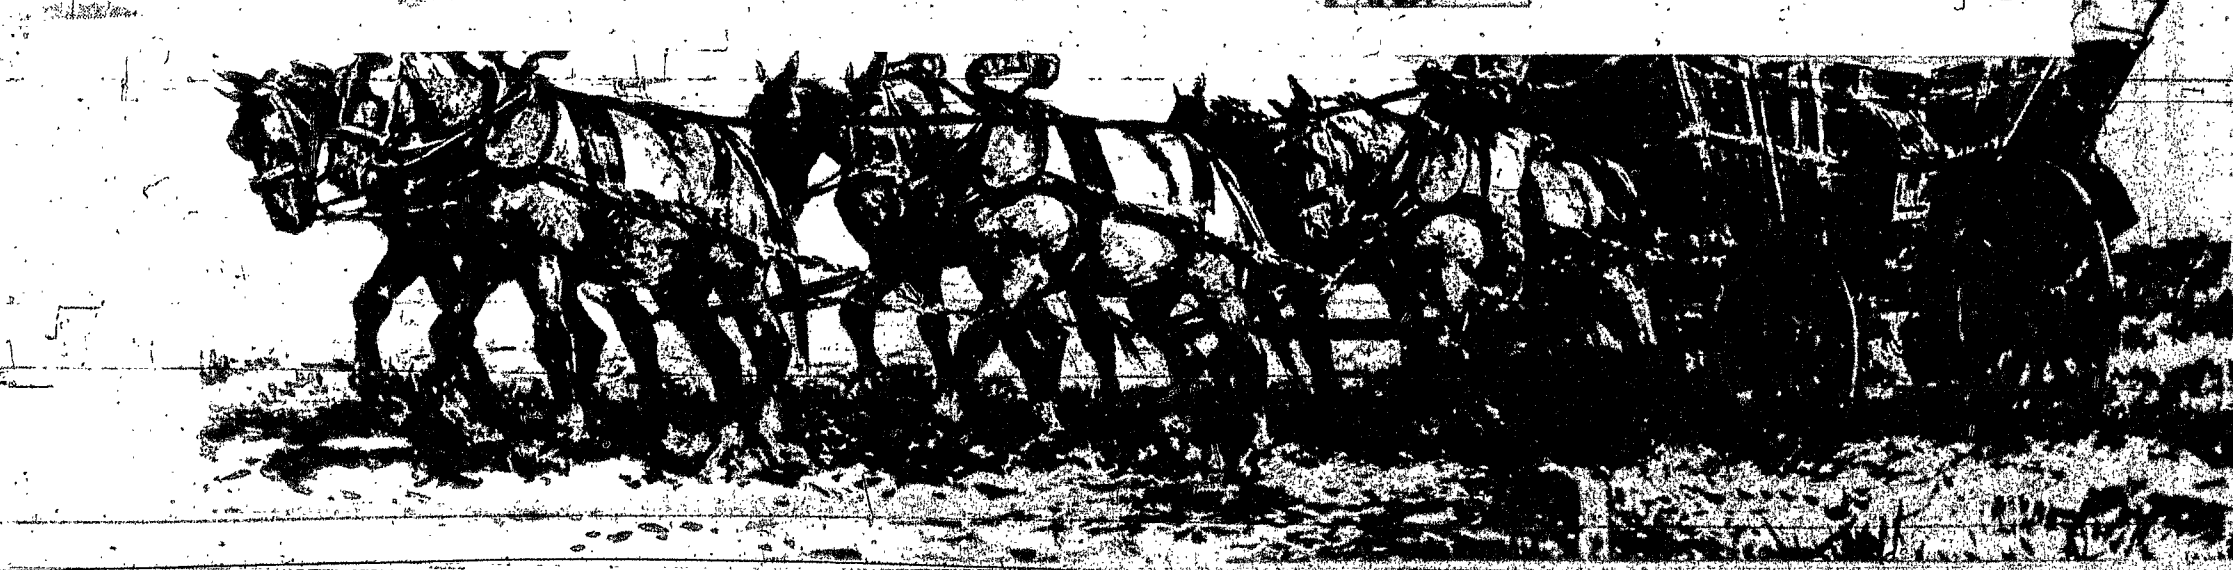

Mrs. Ruby Fleming, 118 Jefferson Davis Ave., told firemen "My dog was trying to alert me, he was barking like crazy, but I just didn't look out the window in time."

In his excitement to escape, Compagno said he forgot and left the key to his car in the burning house. Mrs. Fleming said Price borrowed a garden hose and kept a stream of water on the car parked in the driveway until firemen arrived.

Firemen were at the scene approximately 10 minutes later. According to Ferrell, the blaze was under control an hour later. The Bay St. Louis Fire Department was called in to assist.

Ferrell said the entire house was in flames when firemen arrived "so we just threw the hoses on it." Following an inspection of the charred, soggy ruins, Ferrell said he could not determine how or in which room the fire started.

Compagno said the house and contents were insured.

'25 Savings Bond '25

Second through Tenth place to receive

Honorable Mention

Newspapers are good for many things. Some of these are the more obvious, like reading, wrapping fish, putting under garbage, using as door mat, and so forth.

An essay, written by a six year old California school girl, was recently reprinted by the "Texas Press Messenger," and picked up by the Stone County Enterprise.

The essay went:

"Newspapers. We need them so we can know who reks and who drownds and who shoots somebody. And who wants a house or who dies or gets a baby. It tells if your dog is lost. They are good on shelves and to make bond fires. They also good unda baby's plate and to keep your dogs offa things. You can wrap potato peelings in them. You can put one when you defrost. They tell about shows and how much things are."

Sunday Echoes now officially opens the "What are Newspapers good for?" essay contest. A savings bond value $25 will be presented the winner, and he or she, along with the next nine runners up, all of whom will receive "Honorable Mentions" will have their photographs and entries published in a future issue of Sunday Echoes.

Contest Rules

(1) The contest is open to all children eight years old or younger.

(2) Parents are forbidden to help under all sorts of terrible and dire penalties, but are allowed to encourage entries, provide paper and pencils, postage and envelopes.

(3) Entries should be addressed to: "What Newspapers are good for," Contest, Sunday Echoes, Sea Coast Echo, 112 South 2nd Street, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

(4) Closing date for entries is last post, last day of January, 1976. As that is a Saturday, "Sneakee" entries will be allowed providing they are postmarked on February 1, 1976.

(5) All submissions will be read by a panel of three judges, who volunteered their services providing their identity is kept secret. The judges are, President and Chief Factotum, Mrs. Prima Wusnack, administrator, City-County Public Library; Judges without Portfolios, Mr. Billy Sills, principal, North Bay Elementary School, Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Charlotte Johnson, teacher, second grade, Waveland Elementary School, Waveland, Mississippi.

(6) That's enough rules. (-J-)

Contest No. 7

"Well, where/what is it?"

"Well, where-what is it?" will portray a different, well known area scene, or article, location or item for each contest. Each will be presented in disguised photographic form, with the complete description being provided upon completion of each contest. Clues, in the form of poetic verse, will be given, with additional lines being added each week the contest location or item remains unsolved.

It takes the "Where" to win as well as the "What"

1976 started off with a host of letters rolling in on Contest No. 7. Mrs. Gerard Freeman, 202 Keller Ave., Bay St. Louis, mailed in the first correctly identifying letter opened, and to her went two free passes to the Star Theatre. The solution was the Town (or City) Hall in Waveland. All letters received correctly identified the structure, so, as promised, we have toughened up a little with Contest No. 7.

First entries will be opened following receipt of mail on Thursday, Jan. 15. Good Luck!

Clue No. 1

Though not too long,
It's fairly high,
And stretches down a street,
That's covered daily, Side to side,
By hosts of growing feet.

? Contest Rules ?

1. "Well, where-what is it?" is designed to be fun contest only, although the first correct answer opened by the Weekly Supplement editor will receive two complimentary passes to the Star Theatre.

2. Entries should be addressed to: Contest No. 7 Sea Coast Echo, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520. Entries received each week will be held until noon on the Thursday preceding publication of that weekend's Sunday Echoes.

3. Employees of the Sea Coast Echo or their families are ineligible. All entrants must be over 18 years old.

4. Names of winners will be published in subsequent issues.

5. Additional clues will be published each week until the contest is won. A full picture of the contest's location, or identification, will be published along with the winner's name.

SHHHHHHHH... Just thinkin'... Thinkin' 'bout the New Year... Almost impossible to believe during this most recent cold spell, but just last Tuesday we were raking leaves in a neglected corner of the yard. Spied some clover with small purple blossoms beneath the leaves. Even watched a little yellow butterfly, flittin' around as if it were May. Only five days ago! Wonderful way to begin a New Year!!

One neighbor is beginning his new year with a lot more concern. During our discussion of a recent political news item, he remarked, "Sure, I'm concerned about balance of payments. Especially on the Christmas bills, the taxes, and the regular monthly bills..."

But another friend is looking forward to a GREAT year. Recalled his childhood in a tiny home in a small country.

His mother mixed a little milk with the one egg their chicken produced almost every day, fried the mixture and cut it into five strips. One strip per child was breakfast. Today, over here, he still has a very low income according to our standards, but each of his kids enjoys a good meal three times a day. He says this'll be a wonderful year!

One young wife-mother told us how boring the New Year seemed to her last Monday. Holiday bustle finished, Christmas tree down, house all cleaned up, kids back in school. Same old hum-drum existence beginning again.

Then her grandmother called to talk of her busy day. She'd made her bed, fed the cat, rinsed out her small wash, cooked a small meatloaf which would be her lunches and dinners for two days. What a glorious day! She was able to do ALL THAT—in spite of her age and arthritis!

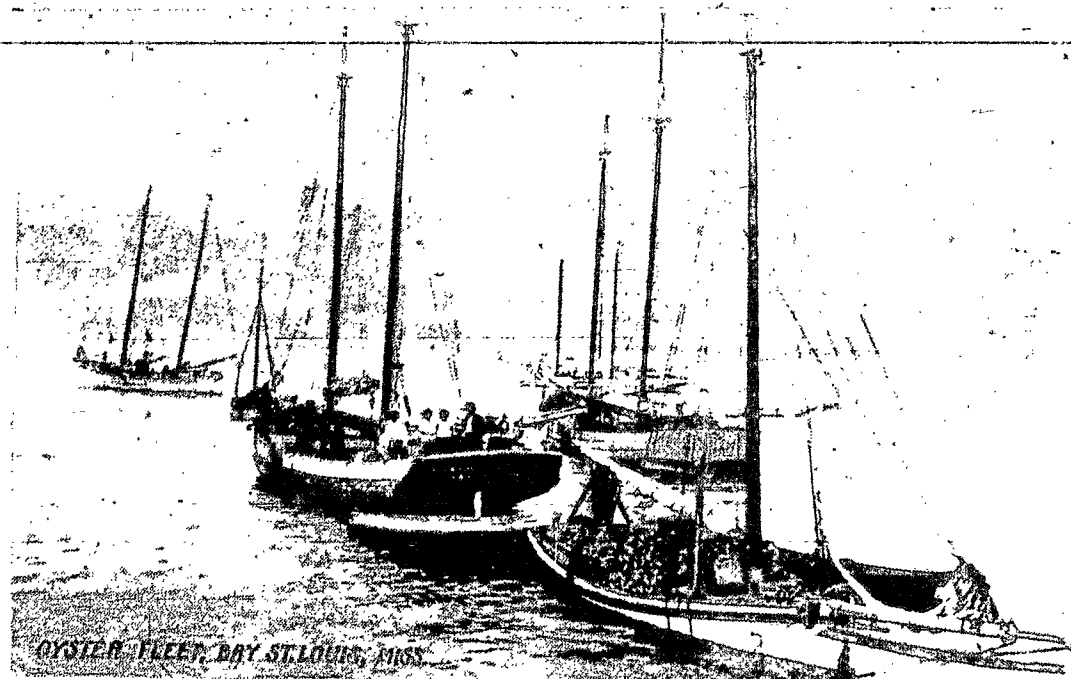

Sure woke the young mom up! Decided she's not facing such a drab year in '76 after all. Sure is funny how one situation can be viewed so many ways. Just received several letters from friends Up North. One child wrote my young'un: Snow's so deep that school's out!!! An extra holiday!!!

Her mom wrote almost the same words but with an entirely different attitude: "Ye gods. Just got through the Christmas holidays. Now school's out again already!" One man wrote of the "blasted snow, the blasted shoveling, the blasted traffic messes." But another wrote just beautifully of the enjoyment he receives from each snow-fall.

We can see each point of view as we read each letter. Can even remember the beauty and peace of newly fallen snow. But this family is awfully happy to be enjoying a Southern winter this year!!!

What a wonderful year is coming up! Don'tcha think so, too?!
